PAID $500 RANSOM, GOT HIS BOY BACK; LITTLE GIRL STOLEN

Tomasolo, Despairing of Police Aid, Hunts His Missing Son Nicola, Who Is "Mysteriously" Restored to Him.

While Michael Tomasoio and his wife are rejoicing to-day over the return of their four-year-old kidnapped son Nicola, Giuseppe Orlando and his wife, of No. 311 East Forty-fifth street, are in the depths of woe, for their three-year-old daughter Annie was kidnapped on Monday afternoon rom a crowd on the sidewalk near her father's bakery at No. 853 Second Tomasolo undoubtedly paid ransom for the return of his son, who was tolen a month ago, after the detectives had failed to find him. Doubtless the same gang that kidnapped little Nicola Tomasolo stole Annie Orlando, for Tomasole and Orlando are both from Palermo, Italy, and are reputed men of wealth by their countrymen.

Nicola tells a story showing that the kidnappers have a headquarters from Carmella that Annie was stolen n Brooklyn, where there are several kidnapped children held prisoners at this time. Some of them are girls. One of the boys is named Tony. Another kidnapping case upon which the police are all at sea is that Mary Rossi, eleven years old, who has disappeared from her home at Arlington, Staten Island. Her father is an Italian of means.

That a band of kidnappers is operating in this city in open, contemptdefiance of the police is established by the return to his parents to-day of four-year-old Nicola Tomasolo, who was stolen from the sidewalk in front of his home, No. 154 East Houston street, on August 19. He says other children, who have been kidnapped, are kept prisoners in house where he was lodged in Brooklyn.

On the same police return to Headquarters that records the recovery of the Tomasolo boy is a report from the East Fifty-first Street Station of the kidnapping of Annie Orlando, three years old, the child of an Italian baker living at No. 311 East Forty-fifth street. She was stolen
